Continu Instrument Cleaner 5 Litre

The Continu 5 litre Alcohol free instrument & ultrasonic cleaner concentrate is a "specifically formulated" concentrate solution that is ideal for pre-cleaning instruments as it is so gentle that it will not damage equipment, but the surfactant is sufficiently powerful to remove debris.

Mixing Instructions

Wear appropriate hand and eye protection when mixing undiluted product. For maximum efficiency, put 1 litre of water (at less than 40°C) then add 50ml of the instrument cleaner to make up the diluted solution. The Continu solution 5 litre bottle should make up 100 litres.

HTM01-05 highlights that “alcohol has been shown to bind blood protein to stainless steel (so) the use of alcohol with instruments should therefore be avoided.” The Continu instrument cleaner has been shown in tests against leading alcohol based alternatives to more effectively eliminate protein from surfaces.

Swab-it

LICENSED PHENOL IMPREGNATED SWABS WITH 89% PHENOL LIQUID USP

-  Compliant with National Patient Safety Alert and RCPod guidance.
-  Class IIa medical device.
-  Sealed ampoules with integrated swab applicator.
-  Triple lined sealed aluminium packaging.
-  Reduced risk of spillage, leakage and phenol vapour inhalation.
-  Controlled dosage to prevent the excessive application of phenol.
-  Provides a fresh, traceable source of phenol for every practice.

30 Pack £93.45 ex vat
Code: UPHSI30

Phenol Swab-It are the only licensed phenol impregnated swabs with 89% phenol liquid USP. Phenol Swab-it are a safe and compliant solution for the use in Nail Matrixectomy.

The phenol is contained in a small, sealed ampoule with an integrated cotton bud applicator. The ampoule can only be punctured using the cotton bud applicator, which is used to absorb the phenol liquid.

Toxicity:

Phenol is used to create a controlled burn designed to destroy tissue and is therefore not considered to be a hazard during the conduct of nail matrixectomy surgery. This is a well-established method for which there is no approved and licensed alternative.

Spillage:

Phenol Swab-It provides small, single-use aliquots of phenol in a disposable ampoule which is activated by inserting the integrated cotton bud applicator. This offers a vast improvement when compared to using bottles of phenol, where the risks of spillage are significantly greater.

Excessive Contact:

The phenol dose in the ampoule is controlled within 0.175ml to 0.20ml. Inclusion of the swab within the ampoule ensures that the risk of excessive application of phenol is significantly reduced.

Manufacturing to an ISO 13485 based quality system ensures consistency of output.

Fumes:

Fumes are reduced significantly due to the single ampoule product design. The packaging materials are also capable of preventing any fumes from escaping whilst the product is in storage.

Leakage:

Risk of leakage is reduced by containing the phenol in individual polyethylene ampoules within single foil pouches. 30 single swabs are then packed in a resealable outer foil pouch for further protection.

The ampoule material specification and construction ensure that it is resistant to mechanical destruction.

Manufacturing processes have been designed to ensure that a reliable seal is created after the ampoules are filled.

Gehwol Sulci Protector

Sulci protectors are ideal for straightening, mending and shaping the side edges of the nail, for cushioning the nail edge preventing irritation or inflammation within the nail sulcus and protecting the nail sulcus from ingress of the nail plate or a nail spicule. They offer a distinct advantage over packing, especially for ingrown toenails. They can be left in place for up to eight weeks (must be re-fixed after four weeks).

The splints do not just provide a cushion, they also have the effect of maintaining the normal width and shape of the nail at the free edge. This prevents changes to the nail bed, protrusion of the nail sulcus and the resulting deformities and growth disorders of the nail. Available in three different sizes. Sulci protectors can be positioned using tweezers or a Sulci injector. GEHWOL Nail Compound is the ideal fixative for the protector.

Instruments

Instrument Care

Taking care of your instruments will not only maximise the life of your instruments, but is also good practice for you and your patients' health and safety.

Most of the problems with instruments are due to incorrect instrument care and maintenance, so here are a few tips on how to care for your instruments:

1. Pre Soak

Before cleaning and autoclaving instruments contaminated with tissue debris or fluids, the instruments should be presoaked in a suitable detergent.

2. Hand scrubbing and ultrasonic cleaning

In the absence of an ultrasonic cleaner, manual cleaning under water with a suitable brush and cleaning solution is an alternative.

3. Steam Sterilisation

Sterilise only clean instruments. It is important not to allow dried on debris to become baked on stains in the autoclave, as this will result in permanent stains. It is recommended to use steam sterilization in an autoclave at 134°C in podiatry.

4. Protecting Instruments

Instruments when autoclaved with other metals, the wrong water pH, excessive heat, or dried water droplets can lead to staining and discolouration, making instruments appear dirty. In order to remove any discolouration or markings on your instruments, Surgistain should be used.

5. Lubrication

Prior to autoclaving instruments, lubricate hinges and joints, this will keep your instruments in perfect working order.

The UltraTec PD1cv is a small, lightweight, high sensitivity pocket Doppler with fixed vascular probes. It is perfectly suited as an entry level Doppler for Podiatrists, Chiropodists or vascular specialists, for pressure index or routine vascular detection.

Using the narrow beam high sensitivity pencil or flat probe, cardiovascular flow signals can be easily located, and noise artifacts can be minimised by internal signal processing.

Audio signals are available to the user via the built-in loudspeaker or optional headset with output level controlled by rotary volume control.

The unit is powered by a standard 9V battery which provides over 9 hours of use.

Surface mount electronics for high reliability. The PD1cv meets all current EEC standards for medical equipment.
